 @GayleTrotter

Gayle Trotter is a native Washingtonian with conservative political sensibilities that have never lost touch with the heartland of America, and she brings keen insights on the issues of the day about what is going on in our nation's capital where she lives.

Gayle is a strong 1st and 2nd Amendment supporter who first attracted national media attention in 2013 with her testimony before the United States Judiciary Committee hearing on gun rights and gun violence in America where she shocked the DC establishment by stating that guns make women safer.

Gayle has a video and audio podcast called, "The Gayle Trotter Show: RIGHT in DC," where she provides conservative analysis and thoughts about current news and politics. Check it out on YouTube or any podcast platform.

She regularly appears on TV news programs on Fox News, Fox News Media Buzz, Fox Business News and OAN. Gayle has written articles and op-eds for The Hill, The Daily Caller, Townhall and other well-known political websites, and she is a guest on radio shows across the country.

She is the author of, Right in the World, a collection of her essays on hot political topics.

Gayle is often called to provide insight on court cases, and was a frequent speaker in the media on the nomination and confirmation of Supreme Court justices.

Gayle received her B.A. and J.D. from the University of Virginia, where she served as an editor of the Virginia Journal of International Law, considered among the world's most influential international law journals.

She is the co-founder of a law firm in the metro D.C. area that advises entrepreneurs, small businesses and individuals in business, estate administration, estate planning, taxation and trust matters.

She and her husband are the proud parents of six children and make their home—RIGHT in Washington, D.C.
